BuS.Trainers is a multi-stakeholder initiative to boost competitiveness and green innovation in the construction industry, through the build-up of VET trainers' skills in Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy systems by means of the design and development of an open and extensive training system following the methodology of the European Qualifications Framework – EQF, and backed up by a multilateral certification: the Green VET Trainer in construction.

In this context the Gozo Business Chamber is organising a seminar which seeks to discuss the results achieved so far by the project and assess the current situation concerning the Maltese Construction Industry through best practices when it comes to training needs and initiatives in the context of Energy Efficient Buildings.
